OVERLAND PARK, Kan., Jun 03, 2014 Season pool pass? Check. Charcoal for grill? Check. Device protection in the event of damage, theft and viruses? Sprint (NYSE: S) customers can check off one more item from their summer to-do list. During the month of June, Sprint is giving customers who originally opted out of its device protection program at the time of purchase another chance to enroll. Sprint offers a device protection plan perfect for a range of devices – including prepaid phones – from service and repair to device replacement, data protection and technical support. Sprint's device protection covers wireless phones, smartphones, Sprint mobile broadband cards, tablets, netbooks and notebooks. Regardless of the type of device, for $7 per month for prepaid coverage and a range of $8 to $13 per month for postpaid coverage, customers receive comprehensive coverage that includes protection from loss, theft, accidental damage, device malfunction and threats to private data. "It's nearly impossible to replicate the peace of mind from knowing the valuable information we all carry in our phones is protected and that someone is there to help when it's needed," said Jaime Jones, senior vice president-Consumer Sales. "Not to mention the fact that with device protection, customers will have a solution in place, so if the unexpected happens, they can avoid having to blow their budget on a replacement device." To be eligible for device protection open enrollment, the customer's device must be functioning and in the customer's possession. Below are the options currently available to Sprint customers for device protection and Assurant Advanced Protection Pack at www.sprint.com/deviceprotection or by visiting any Sprint store.
